

VOTING DAY AT CLARKSON, NY

In 1948 Bob Phillips and Pete Culross came to Clarkson and photographed the original "voting day" for the Kodak Annual Report.
